I was a great sufferer for many years from Nervous Headaches and Constipation. I tried everything, consulted doctors, but nothing seemed to help me until I tried 'Fruit-a-lives'."

After I had taken several boxes, I was completely relieved of these troubles and have been unusually well ever since."

MISS ANNIE WARD.

Red Cross Effort

The Canadian Red Cross Society seeks to perpetuate its activities through new charter powers which will provide for the use of its funds in works of relief of various kinds during peace time. In other words, instead of being as it always has been, a special organization devoted to the assistance of the wounded in the war, it now proposes to become one of the regular organizations of philanthropic effort.

The Red Cross Society has a great deal of money and many supplies which it had collected in view of the probable continuance of the war. While the funds and supplies in hand may both seem somewhat excessive it must be remembered that the society had found by experience the great advisability of providing well in advance for its requirements. The termination of hostilities, therefore, found it with large assets which cannot be returned to the donors, and which should be used as nearly as possible in accordance with the intentions of those providing them.

Many of the best friends of the society regard it as their duty to sell more of its friends appear to believe that it should do so. There are no doubt reasons for both opinions, although one cannot help feeling that the usefulness of the society in war will not be assisted by its entry into the complications of society work in time of peace. One phase of the matter, however, should not be overlooked in any reorganization of the society, and that is the preservation of the rights of other philanthropic societies that have been doing work of this kind for years.

There has been a tendency towards aggressiveness on the part of the Red Cross Society in its relations with other societies. The size of its organization and the great value of its work have made it somewhat prideful. This was not objected to during the war time because most people, whatever else they might feel, were glad also to work for the Red Cross. In times of peace, however, the situation is different. It has been stated that the Red Cross will seek by the scope of its charter rights to dominate the work of philanthropy and to make other societies subordinate to its will. This would be a grave injustice as well as a grave injustice. It will be the duty of representatives in parliament to see that no excessive or superior powers are given to the Canadian Red Cross Society compared with other regularly organized and recognized societies in connection with peace.

Red Cross Effort

The Canadian Red Cross Society seeks to perpetuate its activities through new charter powers which will provide for the use of its funds in works of relief of various kinds during peace times. In other words, instead of being as it always has been, a special organization devoted to the assistance of the wounded in the war, it now proposes to become one of the regular organizations of philanthropic effort.

The Red Cross Society has a great deal of money and many supplies which it had collected in view of the probable continuance of the war. While the funds and supplies in hand may both seem somewhat excessive it must be remembered that the society had found by experience the great advisability of providing well in advance for its requirements. The termination of hostilities, therefore, found it with large assets which cannot be returned to the donors, and which should be used as nearly as possible in accordance with the intentions of those providing them.

Many of the best friends of the society regret to see it resolve itself into a civil organization. Still more of its friends appear to believe that it should do so. There are no doubt reasons for both opinions, although one cannot help feeling that the usefulness of the society in war will not be assisted by its entry into the complications of society work in time of peace. One phase of the matter, however, should not be overlooked in any reorganization of the society, and that is the preservation of the rights of other philanthropic societies that have been doing work of this kind for years.

There has been a tendency towards aggressiveness on the part of the Red Cross Society in its relations with other societies. The size of its organization and the great value of its work have made it somewhat proud. This was not objected to during the war time because most people, whatever else they worked for, were glad also to work for the Red Cross. In times of peace, however, the situation is different. It has been stated that the Red Cross will seek by the scope of its charter rights to dominate the work of philanthropy and to make other societies subordinate to its will. This would be a grave danger as well as a grave injustice. It will be the duty of representatives in parliament to see that no excessive or superior powers are given to the Canadian Red Cross Society compared with other regularly organized and recognized societies in connection with peace.

North Dakota Senator Speaks Out His Mind

(Senator McCumber of North Dakota, in N. Y. Times, Feb. 9 1919)

"We are endeavoring to secure a League of Nations to maintain the peace of the world and to prevent another such holocaust of blood and devastation as we have just witnessed. This country, should frown down any attempt by any propaganda to create a feeling of distrust or animosity among those nations whose life blood has co-mingled to free the world from the greatest evil that has ever threatened it.

"We speak of this war as our war. We pride ourselves on the part we have taken to defend civilization, to establish as an international doctrine and policy the principle that might does not make right. If that be true, if this war has been our war, if our cause was a just cause, then we are bound to admit that France and Great Britain fought our war for us: that their sons did the dying; that their people did the suffering; that their ships and their sailors fed the billows of the ocean four long years before we even got into our war. With a population of 105,000,000 men, our losses in our expeditionary force up to November 11, 1918, were about 56,000. With a population of about one-third of ours, France lost in killed alone considerably more than 1,000,000 men, and Great Britain, with about the same population as France, nearly 1,000,000 men. Their losses were many hundreds of times greater than ours.

"For three years before our entry into the war we fattened on the misfortunes of those two great allies. They were compelled to purchase from us at whatever figures we saw fit to charge and we were not modest in our demands. Those nations and their out of this war faint, and bleeding. We are yet strong and vigorous. If any people, therefore were ever obliged to other people for a mighty service rendered that obligation today rests upon the people of the United States, and the duty of reciprocal goodwill upon our American conscience.

"Is not the very least we can do for them, in return for their sufferings, their privations and their brave endurance, to extend to them, the hand of good-will, and of any just assistance in lifting the mighty load of indebtedness which will bear heavily upon their shoulders and those of their children's children for many generations."

CLEMENCEAU IS SHOT AT; —NO DANGER

Paris, Feb. 19—Georges Clemenceau, France's aged but vigorous premier, was shot at and slightly wounded this morning as he was entering his automobile for a drive.

Altogether five shots were fired and it was at first reported that the premier had been wounded in the head. It developed later, however that the wounds were in M. Clemenceau's back and shoulder, and that he is not dangerously hurt.

Policeman Goursat, who was wounded in the right eye, also not seriously, by one of the five shots, told a representative of the Associated Press that Premier Clemenceau rushed up to the would-be-assassin and grappled with him.

The premier's wound is not regarded as dangerous in itself, but it is felt that there might be serious consequences from it considering the age and infirmity of the victim.

At about 11 o'clock this morning, however, it was officially announced that M. Clemenceau was not seriously wounded.

It was learned at the city hall that the assassin, a man named Emile Cottin, 25 years old, and born in Creil. The man said his home was in the Montrouse quarter of Paris. The police however do not believe the papers he possesses belong to him, and are inclined to think him a Russian.

To Solve Canada's Employment Problem

EVERYONE in Canada should understand just what the Government is doing to solve the unemployment problems that may arise through the demobilization of our fighting forces.

(1) Employment Offices.

So that everyone—male or female, soldier or civilian—can get quickly such jobs as are available the Government is co-operating with the Provinces in establishing a chain of Public Employment Offices. Employers are being urged to make use of these offices to secure any help they need. Farmers, for example, who need hired men should apply to the nearest office. There will be a Public Employment Office in every town of 10,000 people—and wherever the need for one exists. There will be 60 different offices in all—one-half are already in operation.

(2) Employment Opportunities.

The war held up much work that will now be carried on at once. Public works, shipbuilding, roadbuilding, railway work—construction of bridges, improvement of road-bed, making of new equipment—these will provide new opportunities for employment. In addition, the Government has sent a Trade Mission overseas to secure for Canada a share in the business of providing materials and products required for reconstruction work in Europe. It has also set aside the large sum of $25,000,000 to be loaned through the Provinces to encourage the building of workmen's houses. This will mean much new work in the spring.

(3) Land and Loans for Soldiers

To help soldiers become farmers the Government has developed a programme that includes the providing of land, the granting of loans, and the training and supervision of those inexperienced in farming. At present, the soldier is granted, free, in addition to his ordinary homestead right, one quarter-section of Dominion lands. He also receives a loan up to the maximum of $2,500.

These original plans are now being broadened. If Parliament passes the new proposals during this session, the Soldier Settlement Board will be able to buy suitable land and re-sell it to the soldier at cost.

Land up to the value of $5,000 may be bought by this plan—the money to be repaid in 20 years. The low interest rate of 5 per cent. will be charged. These new proposals will also permit the Soldier Settlement Board to loan the soldier-farmer up to $2,500 for purchasing equipment, etc., in addition to $5,000 loan on his farm.

CASE

Kerosene Tractors

Save Your Horses

Walking over plowed ground all day tires your team as well as the driver. How about pulling a load besides? In these days of scarcity of horse and man power the heavy farm work such as discing can be done most speedily and economical with a Case Kerosene Tractor. The 10-18 or smallest Case tractor can pull an eight foot double action disc harrow s et to full depth. Busy farmers can work the "iron horse" day and night if necessary. Don't forget that Case tractors operate over dusty fields without dust entreing cylinders. The Air washer fully protects the motor. The all cut steel spur gears are fully enclosed and run in oil. The weight of the Case 10-18 is only about 3,400 lbs., this with the liberal sized tires prevents soil packing. Other important features explained in full descriptive literature sent out for the asking. Let us tell you more about the 10-18 or larger Case Tractors.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER

An Appreciation

By Stanley C. S. Kerr

Various during the last twenty years the writer has been brought in contact with late Sir Wilfrid Laurier and it is simply his desire to here record a few of his impressions of the late distinguished statesman.

Sir Wilfrid was a lover of children and children loved him. I can remember an incident that happened when he was staying with some friends in Toronto. Sir Wilfrid was going out to a dinner party and was waiting for his host and hostess; one of the little daughters of the house appeared and going up to him asked him if he would accept a rose for his button hole. He picked the little girl up and kissed her and then said in his most charming way, "My little one, I shall be honored to be decorated by your hands." That little girl, I venture to say, never forgot Sir Wilfrid and his gentle manner. It is only a little incident but typical of his innate tenderness and kindness to young people.

Sir Wilfrid believed that every young Canadian should know and study the history of his country and he always urged boys and young men to familiarize themselves with the early records of Canada. He said that such a study was not only fascinating and tended to make every Canadian appreciate his country, but that it was every Canadian's duty to be familiar with the life history of his native land.

Sir Wilfrid was at Kink Edward's coronation in London in 1902. England had just come through the south African war and owing to Sir Wilfrid's action, Canada had sent her contingents to help the Mother Country in that contest. The public men and people of England were grateful to the then Canadian premier for what he had done and to the Canadians who so worthily represented Canada in that war. For that reason and also for his steadily growing influence in Imperial matters Sir Wilfrid received a warm welcome in London. His distinguished figure was quickly recognized when he was in the procession on the Coronation day and he received the hearty cheers of the English people.

It was in 1907 that Sir Wilfrid attended the great Imperial Conference held in that year at London and at this gathering he played a very important part. Naval defence was one of the most important questions under consideration and it was under the advice of the British Admiralty and in conjunction with the Australian authorities that Sir Wilfrid adopted his policy of creating a Canadian navy, which was to operate in the Atlantic, thus considerably lessening the naval burden of England on the High Sea. After Sir Wilfrid was defeated the Canadian navy disappeared, but time will probably vindicate his attitude toward naval defence which resulted in the first constructive Canadian naval policy.

Sir Wilfrid again journeyed to England for the Coronation of the present king and dispatched to represent Canada, the biggest military contingent present on that occasion—over seven hundred troops and two hundred R.N.W.M.P. The Canadian troops were in excess of all the troops sent from the other parts of the Empire and in consequence were placed on the day of the coronation on the right of the king as he left Buckingham Palace—a distinction hitherto reserved for India. No one who saw the reception that Sir Wilfrid received in London on June 22nd, 1911 (the day of the King's coronation) is likely to forget it. There was Royalty there from every European country, including the former Crown Prince, but the distinguished Canadian citizen received the loudest plaudits of the crowd—all of London cheered him in a way that London alone can applaud. On the occasion of this visit Sir Wilfrid delivered a notable address at the Lord Mayor's banquet given in the Guildhall in the heart of the city of London. He was there in company with the foremost public men of the world and well did he acquit himself. In eloquent terms he expressed his belief in the ever increasing strength, stability and progress of the great self governing dominions and in the part that they would play in maintaining and expounding the democratic principles of Anglo-Saxon institutions. Any Canadian who heard him that day felt that his country was well represented by this earnest and eloquent man.

It was as a real Canadian Sir Wilfrid showed at his best. His imagination was caught by the great Empire of which he was a citizen but he never forgot his duty to his native country. When he attended Imperial conferences and was brought in contact with the very shrewdest of British Statesmen, he was not overcome by the brilliance of either the personalities that he met or of the ceremonies given in his honor. He advocated unflinchingly the rights and claims of Canada and got them recognized and in so doing earned for himself the eternal respect and admiration of British and other overseas statesmen. At meetings such as these he never let his mind be led away from his duty to his fellow-Canadians at home. He developed the true ideas of self government in regard to Canada and believed that Canada should assume more and more responsibility for the conduct of her government, both in regard to home and foreign affairs. The application of such a policy was in his opinion the only true method for the furtherance of a happy and prosperous empire and for the continuance of its influence for world freedom. This belief has always been shared by many of the most profound and careful thinkers of British public life.

He was proud that he had been born in this country as had his forebears before him. Canada was his homeland, and all that that implies and he labored through his long life of public service to place Canada high in the eyes of the world and he succeeded. He gave Canada, the British preference, a Canadian naval policy, a great transcontinental railway, immigration and prosperity to the west and a real voice in the affairs of the Empire. He was loved by his followers and presided over the affairs of this country with a firm hand. He would not brook interference by cabals and rid himself of those who were not faithful to their trust. He was respected in Opposition for he led his followers, then as when in power with vigor and vigilance. He believed in ideals and kept them high. He was the most outstanding man yet produced by one great branch of the Canadian people and he was justly proud of the French-Canadian and Arcaean blood that flowed in his veins. He honored the early pioneers of Canada, respected and sought the advice of his contemporaries and we can feel sure that he died hopeful, trustful and confident in the capabilities of the generations of Canadians yet to come to carry on and develop the high principles which he always advocated.

He was the most outstanding figure of his time and he would have desired no greater honor from his fellow citizens than to be remembered as one who had labored faithfully and honorably for the good of his own dear Canada.

The Dominion Parliament Opens

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—Parliament opened today. The note of mourning in hanging crepe and half-masted flags, was everywhere. There was none of the usual social display. No invitations were issued to the ceremony—usually the social event of the year—there was none present but the governors general and his staff, members of parliament assembled to hear the speech from the throne, judges of the Supreme court and a few of the men of prominence gathered here to pay their last respects.

His excellency and staff arrived shortly before 3 o'clock and immediately proceeded to the senate chamber for the formal opening.

Following the speech from the throne, members of the commons headed by the speaker, returned to the house. But the proceedings here were brief. Formal motions incidental to the opening of the session were presented by Sir Thomas White. There was a motion that the remains of Sir Wilfrid Laurier be given a public funeral.

"That it be resolved," Sir Thomas White, the acting prime minister moved. "That in opinion of this house, the mortal remains of the Rt. Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, G.C.M.G., should be publicly interred and that this house will concur in giving to the ceremony a fitting degree of solemnity and importance." The motion was carried.

Then, out of respect, the house adjourned till Tuesday, when full tribute will be paid by leaders on both sides to Sir Wilfrid's memory. Afterwards Major Rodman (Calgary) will move and Captain Marion (Fort William and Keary River) will second the formal address in reply to the speech from the throne and the debate will open.

The Speech From the Throne

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate:

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

Since the last session of parliament events have transpired of the highest consequence to the empire and to Canada. After withstanding with steadfast valor repeated assaults pressed with the utmost vigor and deliberation the Allied forces, taking the offensive in all theatres of action, advanced to decisive and overwhelming victory. Upon terms of practically unconditional surrender on the part of the enemy armistices were arranged and are now in effect, under which extensive strategic territories have been evacuated, guns, ammunitions and other war material and supplies surrendered up to the Allies. A conference is now being held at Paris to determine the conditions upon which peace will be concluded. As the decisions of this conference will be of vital importance to Canada as well as to other parts of the Empire. It is being attended by the Rt. Honorable the Prime Minister, accompanied by others of my advisers.

In the notable victories leading to the glorious issue accomplished by the arms of the Allies, none of the forces engaged bore a more valorous or heroic part than those of Canada whose accomplishments throughout the entire war have won imperishable renown for their country. It is most gratifying to be able to state that, in the final and decisive stages of the mighty struggle, our divisions in the field were maintained to over-strength, and equipped in the highest degree with all the requirements of modern warfare. The appreciation and gratitude of the nation cannot be too earnestly and sincerely expressed to the gallant members of the Canadian expeditionary force, whose sacrifices, sufferings and heroisms have played so effective a part in vindicating the cause of world liberty and civilization.

Prior to the armistice, plans and preparations had been made for the return demobilization and re-establishment in civil life after the close of the war, of our soldiers with their dependents overseas. They are now in operation and, while this great undertaking presents, owing to after-war conditions, many difficulties and complications it is confidently expected that it will be accomplished speedily and satisfactorily.

Immediately upon the conclusion of the armistice, which necessarily involved the cessation of operations in the manufacture of munitions and other essential war industries, steps were taken by my advisers to facilitate the re-adjustment of business, and to provide employment. Orders-in-council embodying the measures adopted will be laid before you without delay.

A bill relating to the franchise with such provisions as are necessary having regard to existing conditions, and providing, among other things, for effectually enabling women to vote and conferring upon them the privilege of sitting in parliament, will be submitted for your consideration. Your assistance will be invited to bills providing for aid in the construction of highways, for assisting returned soldiers in establishing themselves upon the land and for promoting desirable immigration and farm settlement.

Measures will also be submitted for the promotion of vocational education; for the creation of a department of public health; for promoting better housing conditions throughout the country; for loans made for the purpose to the several provinces and for the validation by parliament of orders-in-council prohibiting the importation and manufacture of intoxicating liquors and the transportation thereof into any community where the sale is contrary to law. Other necessary legislation dealing with matters including pensions to soldiers and their dependents now regulated by orders-in-council, will be laid before you. Further important measures designed to promote the welfare and prosperity of the people in the new era of reconstruction, social as well as material, upon which the world has entered, will be recommended to your consideration.

After more than four years of war, and notwithstanding the sudden dislocation brought about by the armistice, Canada's industrial commercial and financial stability has been well maintained. It is the expectation that in addition to business arising from the resumption of public and private undertakings in Canada which were suspended by the war, and needed improvements and betterments throughout the Dominion, Canada will obtain substantial participation in the expansion of export trade following the conclusion of the war and the liberation of commerce from the restraints which have existed during its continuance. Steps have been taken by my advisers to promote and facilitate such participation.

The accounts of the last and the estimates for the next fiscal year will be submitted to you without delay; you will be asked to make necessary financial provisions for meeting the remaining expenditures arising out of the war in connection with demobilization; also for the establishment of credits for the financing of purchases of our agricultural, industrial and other products.

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate:
Gentlemen of the House:

It is appropriate that we should acknowledge our thankfulness to Divine Providence for the successful issue of the terrible struggle in which for so long a period our armies have been engaged and for the restoration of peace to the world. Through the long conflict with its dire vicissitudes and varying fortunes, our people never allowed themselves to doubt that victory would finally crown our cause, which was that of truth and justice. The deeply loyal and earnest co-operation of the overseas dominions and dependents with the mother country must more firmly cement for all time those ties which bind the empire in indissoluble union. The spirit born of common sacrifice, suffering and heroic endeavor will also, it is confidently hoped, permanently unite the Allies by the bonds of a great memory and tradition, and effectually promote the formation of a league of nations which will ensure for all times the peace of the world.

Bentley Notes

The village of Bentley passed three by-laws at a meeting last week. They are as follows:—

1st. A tax of one (1) dollar will be made upon each dog kept within the village for the year 1919. This tax must be paid on or before March 1st.

2nd. A building line was established for the south side of Macpherson Ave. by which all buildings must not be built closer to the street line than 18 feet.

3rd. A brick chimney must be built on every building within the village area.

A letter has been received from Red Cross headquarters in which a request is made that all branches endeavor to gather in all the hospital supplies now out among the workers and ship them to Calgary about the first week in March.

No more of these supplies will be sent out at least for the present, but there are large quantities of Refugees supplies needed and it is hoped there will be much of this done before spring. All the ladies of the district who have unfinished work at home are asked to finish it up as soon as possible and send it in to the Red Cross Depot as a box will be shipped next week.

The Helping Hand Society met at the parsonage last Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Herbert Thorp, local secretary of the Modern Woodmen of America has received a letter from Mrs. Edna Wengatz in which she says, "I am very thankful for the services the Modern Woodmen rendered me." "I received the $1000.00 from the Woodmen."

"What fine men the Modern Woodmen are up at the Bentley Camp." This tribute from Mrs. Wengatz but proves again the truth of the adage, "A friend in need is a friend indeed" and should encourage them to continue in their good work.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reitzel spent a few days in Edmonton last week end.

Mrs. J. M. Fallis who was visiting in Calgary last week has returned.

Another successful community night was held last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Stephenson. There was a fair turnout of the neighbors and a pleasant evening was spent in social intercourse.

The next community night will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stone on Wednesday March 5th and the community is invited to attend.

Owing to the disagreeable weather on Saturday night, the debate in the Stephenson School was adjourned. This debate, rural vs. city life, will be held in the Stephenson School house on Saturday night, March 1st at 8 p.m.

The Y.P.S. meeting on Friday night sustained a record already set for these meetings, both in program and attendance. The evening was in charge of the debating committee of which Mr. H. C. Nicholson is convener. The debate was "Resolved that the poor man's son has better opportunities in life than the rich man's son."

The affirmative was supported by Messrs. Campbell Miller, Kenneth Dane and Joe. Dameron. The negative was championed by Messrs. Blaine Hutton and Morley Crawford and Mrs. James Morrison. The critic was Mr. Frank Thorp and the judges were, Miss C. Noles, Miss A. Hobbs and J. M. Fawcett. The verdict was in favor of the negative.

The affirmative were under quite a handicap owing to the wording of the resolution. They put up a splendid argument but it was not to the point. A great array of self-made poor men's sons were cited as evidence on their side and this was backed up by instances of honesty, society and thrift of the poor man, as against the debauchery and waste and luxury produced by inherited wealth. Unfortunately this was mostly away from the question of opportunity. In an auto race, a driver may happen with an accident and although left behind for a moment, he makes up and wins the race, not because he had a better opportunity, but in spite of his misfortune. The old fable of the Hare and the Tortoise is still true, but all admit the hare had the best opportunity to win the race.

The negative had the work very well arranged and their arguments well classified. Every speaker is to be congratulated on the attempt made. The greatest value of these debates is the training given to young people who take part.

A miscellaneous programme was given before and after the debate, consisting of readings by Mrs. Bullock and Mrs. J. Morrison and solos by Miss Florence Court and Mr. A. V. Cocks. These were all enjoyed by the audience.

The next meeting of the society will be in charge of the social committee.

The monthly business meeting of the Sunset Hill Local U.F.A. was held in the Stephenson school house on Saturday night, owing to the cold night there was not a very large turnout. The chief item of business was a discussion regarding the extension of the telephone line west and south of Bentley.

Mrs. J. M. Fawcett left on Friday last to spend a month with Mr. Fawcett's parents in Calgary, and to visit some other points in southern Alberta.

A quiet home wedding took place on Wednesday, Feb. 19th at high noon, at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Nicholson north of Bentley, when their second daughter, Zella Faye, was united in marriage to Mr. Ray Hutton, son of Mr. J. R. Hutton. The ceremony was performed by the father of the bride, assisted by Rev. John M. Fawcett, in the presence of the immediate relatives, the young couple were unattended. The bride was becomingly dressed in a gown of flesh pink silk crepe de chine embroidered in navy blue in a design executed by herself.

After all had participated in the delicious wedding dinner the happy couple left, in the afternoon, amidst shower of good wishes, confetti, rice and old shoes, and were motored to Lacombe, where they took the evening train for Edmonton. Upon their return they will reside in the new residence on the farm two miles east of Bentley.

The many beautiful gifts testified to the highest esteem in which the bride and groom are held. The best wishes of the whole community are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hutton for a long happy and prosperous married life.

Miss Alice McPherson of Calgary spent the week end with her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Veckind of Rimby visited at the Osgood home on over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wright left on Monday morning for Portland, Oregon. Their sale last week was very successful.

Mr. John Poling has purchased the farm owned by Wm. Shoup, 2 miles north of Bentley and will move into it shortly. Mr. Lee Shaver has purchased the town property now occupied by Mr. Poling.

Mrs. F. S. Chapman returned from Edmonton on Monday.

There was a very good attendance at the nomination meeting in Sunset Hill School house on Thursday afternoon. In two districts No. 1 and 3 the old councillors were returned by acclamation.

These were E. J. Wyatt and John Lourey in District No. 2, Messrs. H. Talsen, Hans Spensberg were nominated. In District No. 4 J. As. Jeffries and Carl Lindner were nominated. In District No. 5, Messrs. N. A. Palm and Edward H. Hartsdadt were nominated and in District No. 6 Messrs. Philo Slaughter, C. H. Whitworth and H. A. Brown.

Since nomination day, Mr. C. H. Whitworth has withdrawn from the contest in Dist. 6.

Grain Growers To Become More

Active Traders
Beginning, Feb. 19 Trading activities of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association will be enlarged, the convention today approving of proposed plan of the executive to sell debenture stock up to the amount of $500,000 with which to establish a wholesale warehouse to supply trading locals.

Debitures under the proposed scheme will be sold for the raising of the money not to exceed half million dollars; no trust funds are to be permitted to be used for the repayment of the indebtedness; thus created; the rate of interest to be paid to debenture holders is to be six per cent. per annum and before profits are paid a further interest of two per cent. must be provided; debenture stock can only be issued to members of the association. Provision is made for a special convention of what is to be known as the trading department or in other words this department, is lifted from the general convention of the association with its own officers and directors but subject to the regulations issued from time to time by the executive board. Five members of a local who are subscribers have the right to send a delegate to the annual convention, and affiliated bodies having subscribed not less than $500 may send a delegate. The trading convention shall elect two debenture holders as nominees as debenture holders' representatives on the control board, and when approved by the convention shall be members of the executive of the association.

A partial canvass of the convention resulted in $60,000 being promised and the expectation is $100,000 will be pledged before the convention closes.

Tomorrow the farmers platform and the resolutions on the association entering politics will be taken up.

Notice

To the farmers of the Lacombe district. As I have been Miller at the Lacombe mill for the past three months and I am not going with that company, I would like to inform the farmers that a mill could be built that would give the farmers from 40 to 43 pounds of the best flour per bushel of No. 2 wheat, and if the farmers of this district would co-operate we could build a 100 barrel mill and I would take all the stock off their hands inside of two years if they so desired. The extra amount of flour produced from a bushel of wheat would pay for the mill in a few years.

Yours,
J. R. HENDERSON, Lacombe, Miller.

Ottawa Honors Great Dead

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Canada's capital today honored its great dead in worthy fashion. There was a tremendous dignity and solemnity in the funeral cortege of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, which formed a fitting climax to a life which would have been noble in any of the great nations of the world, ancient or modern.

This dignity made itself manifest not so much in the formal arrangement which had been made for a state funeral, but in the grand spontaneity with which the people flocked to pay a last tribute. Unquestionably this was the largest funeral, the grandest and noblest Canada has ever seen. During the eve of the funeral when the body was lying in state in the chamber of the parliament in which the great leader had won his triumph for the people, nearly 40,000 filed past the catafalque. It was late in the night before the last of the long line would be admitted and from the earliest dawn this morning, thousands more streamed down to the Victoria Museum.

Soon after eight o'clock great numbers of spectators had assembled along the route taking advantage of every position which would give them an unobstructed view. The city had filled with visitors as if by magic overnight, special trains running from distant points and at times congesting the large railway station.

Promptly at 10 o'clock the new arrangements for the departure of the cortege were complete despite the complexity of having to make up a procession composed of horse drawn sleighs (for the streets of Ottawa are deep with snow,) and of scores of dignitaries of state national societies, returned soldiers societies, and political bodies closing with a vast unclassified stream of simple citizens from nearly all parts of the Dominion.

After the War

An aftermath of the war that is as regrettable as it is certain is an increased responsibility falling upon the state with respect to the care and maintenance of dependent children. Local workers in connection with Children's Aid effort are finding that demands upon their time are steadily increasing while reports from the Children's Shelter show already a state of overcrowding that is to say the least unhealthy.

Whatever the causes may be the fact is that following the war many parents seem to have lost all sense of their parental responsibilities. Husbands have returned from the war to discover that during their absence their wives have taken up with other men and that their children are left without mother care. Wives are being deserted in numbers surprisingly large and left to provide as best they can for themselves and their families of little ones.

Under the circumstances there is nothing for the state to do but step into the breach and accept responsibility as foster parent of these children. That such a course in good business is certain, safeguarding the future of society and increasing our wealth of the trained human asset. But the state should do more than this. In some way it should be possible for the deserters to be followed up and punished.

The man or woman who abandons his or her children is a defaulter in a criminal sense. The marriage ceremony is a civil contract and the state is vitally interested in its proper fulfillment for the reason that where for any reason there is failure by one party or the other to carry out the terms the state is forced to assume obligations and responsibilities properly belonging to the defaulters. Laws should be made so hard and difficult for these people that they would hesitate long before taking a chance on it.

PEOPLE OF GERMANY DECEIVED

Brussels, Feb. 19.—Maximilian Harden, editor of the Die Zeit Zukunft, of Berlin, in an interview in L'espresso, of Brussels, declares that the German people were misled as to the cause of the war. They believed at the outbreak that Germany was in the right and even believe now that the right was on their side. Emperor William, Harden declares, was drawn into the war against his own wishes, but once hostilities began, it was he who kept alive national hatred and was responsible for the method of warfare for which the whole world would never forgive Germany.

"Our people," said Harden, "did not know, and do not know now. They loyally believed that right was on their side if they had not, they would not have fought and suffered as they did. The belief in a coalition against Germany. They did not understand that Great Britain, France and Russia had no other object than to protect themselves against the adverse designs of the Kaiser. They did not understand that the violation of Belgium was a crime which turned the enlightened universe against Germany. They are still certain that if Germany had not invaded Belgium, Great Britain and France were ready to do so. Personally I do not think France ever thought of such a thing, and if she had, Great Britain would not have permitted it."

"But as an old idea of the Kaisers. In one of the outbursts he once said to Leopold II: 'If there is war, I shall go through Belgium. If she resists Belgium will exist no longer. It is the thirty years of the reign of William II, which carried responsibility for the war. It is the preaching which has poisoned youth. It is the spirit of Militarism that has been soaked into the people. Kaiser William was drawn into it, himself, perhaps against his own sentiments. He was not war like, he was not even courageous and I know that he did struggle to conquer his personal feelings before he could be brought to sign the mobilization decree."

"But once war was declared it was he who kept alive the national hatred."

"It was he who used methods of war for which the world will never pardon. It causes me terrible pain to have to admit this." When the interviewer pointed out to Harden that no protests against Germany's methods ever were raised in Germany, Harden declared that even now not even the actor in the tragedy would admit any guilt, but that persons who have lost a brother or husband in the war, desire to cling to the belief that they have suffered their share of bereavement in good cause; they think it would take away from the dignity of their grief if they recognize that the cause for which their country fought was criminal.

Amendments to Pool Room Act

Edmonton, Feb. 18.—A number of amendments to the Pool and Billiard Room Act are contained in a bill offered the house today by Attorney-General J. R. Boyle, most important among them are regulations providing that all such places shall be closed from and after the hour of half past eleven o'clock Saturday night till 8 o'clock on the Monday morning following and after the hour of 12 o'clock on other nights of the week until 7 o'clock the morning following; but the council of any city, town, village, or rural municipality may pass bylaws providing for closing at an earlier hour than those set forth above.
